

Fire Prevention Technician

Job description

Cantec Fire, a progressive and value-based business is expanding and currently seeking a long-term employee. We are accepting applications for a fire prevention inspection technician. Due to the technical understanding required, trained fire alarm technicians are exceedingly difficult to find, and the training takes months if not years. Therefore, we are willing to train someone in this field.

Since we are looking for a long-term employee, if you are looking to fill time or test drive the opportunity until something else surfaces, this is not for you. As mentioned, training can take years, so please do not waste our time or yours. If you are looking for a permanent position in a field that you will never be out of work, this is an opportunity for you. Serious Applicants Only.

We offer a competitive wage and good benefits, and the successful applicant must have a proven track record of positive interactions with all staff and clients. As a company, we are interested in character first.

While no experience is required, applicants should have the following attributes and qualifications:

- Career Oriented
- Organized
- Willingness to learn
- Comfortable with hand tools
- Comfortable interacting with others
- Committed
- Team player
- Reliable
- Accountable
- Valid Driver License

Duties: (include but not limited to)

- Interaction with clients onsite
- Inspecting and Maintaining life safety devices
- Coordination and execution of tasks onsite with the team leader
- Work with low voltage devices
- Record and maintain current truck inventory levels

Position open immediately.

Job Type: Full-time, Permanent

Salary: $23 per hour min.

Benefits:

- Extended health and dental
- Life Insurance
- Loyalty Program

Schedule:

- 8-hour shift
